The Life of Jesus

Matthew 20:1-16A

Jesus told his disciples this parable:

"The kingdom of heaven is like a landowner who went out at dawn to hire laborers for his vineyard.

After agreeing with them for the usual daily wage, he sent them into his vineyard.

Going out about nine o'clock, the landowner saw others standing idle in the marketplace, and he said to them, 'You too go into my vineyard, and I will give you what is just.'

So they went off.

And he went out again around noon, and around three o'clock, and did likewise.

Going out about five o'clock, the landowner found others standing around, and said to them,

'Why do you stand here idle all day?'

They answered, 'Because no one has hired us.'

He said to them, 'You too go into my vineyard.'

When it was evening the owner of the vineyard said to his foreman,

'Summon the laborers and give them their pay, beginning with the last and ending with the first.'

When those who had started about five o'clock came, each received the usual daily wage.

So when the first came, they thought that they would receive more, but each of them also got the usual wage.

And on receiving it they grumbled against the landowner, saying,

'These last ones worked only one hour, and you have made them equal to us,

who bore the day's burden and the heat.'

He said to one of them in reply,

'My friend, I am not cheating you.

Did you not agree with me for the usual daily wage?'

Take what is yours and go.

What if I wish to give this last one the same as you?

Or am I not free to do as I wish with my own money?

Are you envious because I am generous?'

Thus, the last will be first, and the first will be last."

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL

Priest

St. Vincent De Paul was born of poor parents in the village of Pouy in Gascony, France, about 1580. He enjoyed his first schooling under the Franciscan Friars at Acqs. Such had been his progress in 4 years that a gentleman chose him as a tutor to his children, and he was able to continue his studies without being a burden to his parents. In 1596, he went to the University of Toulouse for theological studies, and there he was ordained a priest in 1600.

In 1605, on a voyage by sea from Marseilles to Narbonne, he fell into the hands of African pirates and was carried as a slave to Tunis. His captivity lasted about 2 years, until Divine Providence enabled him to effect his escape. After a brief visit to Rome he returned to France, where he became a tutor in the family of Emmanuel de Gondy, Count of Joigny, and general of the galleys of France. In 1617, he began to preach missions, and in 1625 he laid the foundation of a congregation which afterward became the Congregation of the Mission, which the Fathers began to occupy in 1633.

It would be impossible to count all the works of this servant of God. Charity was his predominant virtue. It extended to all classes of persons, from forsaken childhood to old age. The Sisters of Charity also owe the foundation of their congregation to St. Vincent. In the midst of the most distracting occupations his soul was always intimately united with God. Though honored by the great ones of the world, he remained deeply rooted in humility. He died in Paris at the age of 80 on September 27, 1660. He is the patron saint of Charitable Societies.

STS. MICHAEL, GABRIEL & RAPHAEL

Archangels

Angels are spirits without bodies, who possess superior intelligence, gigantic strength and surpassing holiness. They enjoy an intimate relationship to God as His special adopted children, contemplating, loving, and praising Him in heaven. Some of them are frequently sent as messengers to men from on high.

This feast celebrates 3 angels who were sent by God to man over the course of the ages: Michael, Gabriel, and Raphael. They are termed Archangels, the second of nine choirs of Angels, which are in descending order: Seraphim, Cherubim, Thrones, Dominations, Virtues, Powers, Principalities, Archangels, and Angels.

The name Michael signifies "Who is like to God?" and was the war cry of the good angels in the battle fought in heaven against Satan and his followers. Holy Scripture describes St. Michael as "one of the chief princes," and as leader of the forces of heaven in their triumph over the powers of hell. He has been especially honored and invoked as patron and protector by the Church from the time of the Apostles. Although he is always called "the Archangel," the Greek Fathers and many others place him over all the Angels – as Prince of the Seraphim.

The name Gabriel means "man of God," or "God has shown Himself mighty." It appears first in the prophecies of Daniel in the Old Testament. The Angel announced to Daniel the prophecy of the seventy weeks. His name also occurs in the apocryphal book of Henoch. He was the Angel who appeared to Zechariah to announce the birth of St. John the Baptist. Finally, he announced to Mary that she would bear a Son who would be conceived of the Holy Spirit, Son of the Most High, and Savior of the world.

The name Raphael means "God has healed." This Angel first appears in Holy Scripture in the Book of Tobit. He acts as a guide to young Tobiah on his journey to Rages, a city in the country of the Medes, east of Nineveh, to collect a debt owed to his father. The Angel binds the demon Asasel in the desert of Egypt, helps Tobiah to find a wife and recover the debt, and heals Tobit from his blindness. He then reveals his identity: "I am the Angel Raphael, one of the seven who stand before the throne of God."

Our Faith

SAINTLY ROLE MODELS FOR PARENTS

*Saints Zelig & Louis Martin
(Parents of St. Therese of Lisieux)*

St. Thérèse of Lisieux wrote of her parents, "God gave me a father and mother more worthy of Heaven than of earth." Over a century later, the Catholic Church confirmed what St. Thérèse already knew. On July 11th, 2008, Louis and Zelig (Guerin) Martin were beatified on Mission Sunday, October 19th, 2008 and were canonized by Pope Francis on October 18th, 2015. They became the first married couple to be canonized in the history of the Church. As such, they are saintly role models for married couples and parents.

At age 22, Louis Martin (1823-1894) attempted to enter religious life at the monastery of the Great St. Bernard Hospice in the Alps. Unfortunately, he was unable to master the Latin that was required. As a result, he sadly gave up his dream of becoming a monk. Instead, he became a successful watchmaker and would later manage his wife's lacemaking business.

Zelig Guerin (1831-1877) also dreamed of religious life, but she was unsuccessful as well. She turned her attention to mastering the art of lace-making which her hometown of Alençon, France, was known for. She soon started her own business and became quite successful in her own right.

Louis and Zelig married on July 13, 1858 when Louis was 34 and Zelig was 26. By mutual agreement, they lived their first ten months of married life without consummating their relationship. Due to the spiritual direction of a confessor, they began to try to have children. Their efforts were rewarded. During the next fifteen years, they would have nine children, although God would call four of those children back home to Him when they were very young. Despite her grief, Zelig always held onto her faith that she would see her children once again in heaven. Zelig and Louis prayed that all of their children would be consecrated to God.

The Martin's youngest child, Marie-Francoise-Thérèse, was born January 2, 1873. She was frail and it was thought that she would soon join her siblings with God, but she pulled through and would ultimately become the famous St. Thérèse of the Child Jesus, also known as "The Little Flower."

Zelig would die young from breast cancer, when Thérèse was only four years old. She would be a dedicated mother to the very end, and all of her children had fond memories of her. She raised them with love and encouraged them to be generous and to make sacrifices for others. Her own life was a model of that self-giving.

After Zelig's death, Louis would move the family to Lisieux to be near Zelig's brother Isidore and his wife Celine. He was a devoted, faith-filled father. He would pray frequently with his children and would often take Thérèse on his daily visits to local Churches to visit the Blessed Sacrament.

While he was sad to lose his daughters, he strongly supported their religious vocations, even accompanying Thérèse to Rome so that she could beg the Pope for permission to enter the Carmelite order at the young age of fifteen. By the time of Thérèse's Clothing in the Carmelite Habit in January 1889, Louis himself was very ill, but he was able to walk his daughter, dressed in her wedding gown decorated with her mother's lace, down the aisle to become a bride of Christ.

Louis would suffer several strokes before his death in 1894. His daughter Celine would care for him until the end. After his death, she, too, entered religious life. Louis and Zelig, who both wanted so desperately to enter religious life, would have all five of their living children live out that dream.

(www.catholicexchange.com)

"Louis & Zelig Martin practiced Christian service in the family, creating day by day an environment of faith and love which nurtured the vocations of their daughters."

- Pope Francis
